Important notice

Nippon Active Value Fund (“NAV F”) is an investment trust, listed on the London Stock Exchange in the United Kingdom, and advised by Rising Sun Management Limited. The value of its shares, and any income from them, can fall as well as rise and investors may not get back the amount invested.

The specific risks associated with the NAV F include:

- NAV F invests in overseas securities. Changes in the rates of exchange may also cause the value of your investment (and any income it may pay) to go down or up.
- NAV F can borrow money to make further investments (sometimes known as “gearing” or “leverage”). The risk is that when this money is repaid by NAV F, the value of the investments may not be enough to cover the borrowing and interest costs, and NAV F will make a loss. If NAV F’s investments fall in value, any invested borrowings will increase the amount of this loss.
- NAV F can buy back its own shares. The risks from borrowing, referred to above, are increased when a trust buys back its own shares.
- Market values for securities which have become difficult to trade may not be readily available and there can be no assurance that any value assigned to such securities will accurately reflect the price NAV F might receive upon their sale.
- NAV F can make use of derivatives which may impact on its performance.
- Investment in smaller companies is generally considered higher risk as changes in their share prices may be greater and the shares may be harder to sell. Smaller companies may do less well in periods of unfavourable economic conditions.
- NAV F’s exposure to a single market and currency may increase risk.
- The aim of NAV F is to achieve capital growth. It does not target a specific yield and might not pay a dividend every year.
- NAV F is listed on the London Stock Exchange and is not authorised or regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority.
- The numbers used in this factsheet are provisional and taken from Rising Sun Management Ltd’s Bloomberg feed. They are liable to change at short notice.
- This information has been issued and approved by Rising Sun Management Limited and does not in any way constitute investment advice. This factsheet does not constitute an offer or invitation to deal in securities.
